

Abstract of the Invention

A method for selecting fashion, including cosmetic and clothing, information for an individual. The method includes providing a fashion database that includes complimentary cosmetic information such as cosmetic product data and physical characteristic data. The step of receiving physical 5 characteristic data for at least one individual. The step of comparing the physical characteristic data the individual with said complimentary cosmetic information to identify a selection of cosmetics that are appropriate for the individual and providing the identified information to the individual.

10720gs FSP-10002/08